" Although we never met, you have always been part of my life. To me you were a friend , someone who always offered support & kindness to everyone. You always showed you cared & beamed that wonderful smile without hesitation. Now you are back in the arms of your beloved Philip looking down on your family & the extended family of the world. Do not worry they will always remember everything you taught them & continue your great work. We will miss you but you are now at Peace. May God Bless you x "

" It must have been at school that I somehow fell in love with England, the English language and culture, which Queen Elizabeth II is an inseparable part of. The world seems a different place from what it was then, but I hope that love, faith and humour - words that feature prominently in tributes paid to the Queen these days - will help us through these darker times. " Ma'am, you have been here all of my life and I consider you 'my grandmother' of sorts. I had the privilege to celebrate your Platinum Jubilee on your favourite Ship, the Royal Yacht Britannia, what an honour and privilege. You more than did your duty to UK & Commonwealth, as you were such an amazing stateswoman for the them and the World. I will miss you enormously but I'm sure your son Charles will eventually fill your boots. I will just miss you personally . Lisa Jacqueline Powell "
