

I'm Roxane, currently in my final year of curacy in the Diocese of London. I live with my teenaged son therefore have some understanding of combining a calling to ministry with motherhood. I came to ministry after various roles within the secular workplace encompassing such industries as film and the arts, local government and housing. I then had the opportunity to attend residential college.

I'd like to walk with people, supporting them by creating a non-judgemental prayerful space to listen, empower and encourage them in the exploration of their vocation and God's call. I'm interested in mentoring women especially from the BAME community as I feel it is important to have a mentor who having walked the path previously will have some insight and understanding.

I've a wide range of interests which include poetry, science fiction and watching films especially World cinema. I'm teaching myself to crochet and love to dance and sing as I cook. I'm available to meet face to face but also online using one of the conferencing platforms. During the day is better for face to face meetings and evenings on Zoom or Google hangouts.
