

Individual study resources enable people to go at their own pace, and in private. They explore generosity in many different ways, and vary in length. They are particularly useful to build up towards a time when generosity is explored within our church services. Depending on the resources used, they can explore generosity in its many different forms, or generous financial giving.

'Generous God, Generous People' is a 5 week course of daily reflections covering Generous God, Generous people, Generous giving, Generosity towards others and Principles for generous people to live by. It is produced by the Diocese of St Edmundsbury & Ipswich.

'Living Generously' is a booklet of 7 days reflections on the story of Mary anointing Jesus' feet and how this illustrates seven different ways to live generously. It is produced by the Diocese of Oxford.

'Generosity and the inheritance of Lent' is a series of reflections for Lent produced by the Church in Wales.

Group study resources

People are hugely influenced by what others do, and so group study resources can be really helpful in developing a shared generous culture.

Retreats

Sometimes you may want to take a more focussed approach to giving and generosity within you church context. A retreat is a great way of doing this with a small group or leadership team and can be done in a wide variety of settings.

Preaching resources

Preaching and teaching on God's generosity is an important part of the discipleship mix. There are numerous resources available to help create sermons on generosity, with a wide variety of examples of sermons for different traditions and contexts

Encouraging generosity

We need to cultivate a generous culture, where we grow in an understanding of God's generosity towards us and share that generosity through our ministry and mission.
