

Congratulations! You've found the Growing Faith Adventure Podcast, exploring how faith can grow in the connections between church, school and home. Whether you are a parent, school leader or part of a church community, join specialist experts and young people on the adventure of bringing about change as we work together to grow in faith with and among children and young people across the generations.

1. Growing Faith Adventure Podcast ...

In this first episode of the Growing Faith Adventure Podcast, hosts Grace and Mary explore how the communities of church, school and household can connect to grow faith amongst children and young people. Young people from the Diocese of Southwark explore the connections they have between these three areas. This is explored further with Dr Ann Casson, Senior Research Fellow (National Institute of Christian Education Research), using her research 'Faith in the Nexus'.
