

Bev Jullien of Mothers' Union talks about how Mothers' Union and Women's Aid have come together to create alliances within communities to help them better respond to domestic abuse.

Coming together to end domestic abuse

Creating alliances within communities equips us to respond to domestic abuse. Mothers' Union and Women's Aid have come together across society and communities to end domestic abuse and have developed a resource to help identify and respond to domestic abuse, promoting 5 things everyone can do to help end domestic abuse.

Take some time today to find out the work being undertaken by your local Mothers' Union community to support individuals and families who have experienced domestic abuse.

---

Source URL: <https://www.churchofengland.org/16-days-activism/day-14>