The Church of England
Pensions Board

We provide retirement services set by the Church of England for those who have served or worked for the Church

Review
2012
Introduction from the Chairman

It has been a transitional year for the Pensions Board, in which we have started to look at the best way to provide our services to the Church of England in the future.

During the year we concluded the valuations of our two pension schemes for lay workers: the Church Workers Pension Fund and the Church Administrators Pension Fund. The former provides a pension scheme to people employed at all levels of the Church of England. This includes people working in diocesan offices, as well as mission agencies, cathedral and parish offices. As a result of the valuation, we assisted a number of employers in changing the benefits package they offer to their employees.

As part of this work, and with the valuation of the Clergy Funded Scheme in prospect for 2013, we held a series of regional workshops with dioceses. These were a welcome opportunity to meet our diocesan colleagues, share information and answer questions. We are reviewing how best to continue this engagement with dioceses in 2013. We also held a fringe meeting at the General Synod’s sessions in York in July, which we plan to repeat.

We strengthened the governance of our pension operations by setting up a Pensions Committee under the chairmanship of Roger Mountford. It has already enabled the Board to challenge and consider in much greater depth the assumptions underlying the valuations. It has also been able to look at other matters such as our communication with scheme members.

In the summer we commissioned York University to carry out research into the future housing needs of retiring clergy. All clergy who were within 15 years of the current pension age were sent a questionnaire. We achieved a remarkably good response rate of over 60%, which perhaps reflects the importance clergy attach to this form of retirement support. The researchers also carried out in-depth interviews with a small number of clergy. The results from this research will be a key element in our planning for the future delivery of CHARM and facilitate a wider debate about the future costs and affordability of the scheme.

Each year we say farewell to some Board members and long-serving members of the staff, and 2012 was no exception. During the course of the year, Colin Peters decided to step down from the Board. He had been a member since the Board had been reconstituted in 1998. Bishop David Walker, the Board’s Vice Chairman and the Chairman of the Housing Committee stepped down in early 2013, upon his appointment as Chairman of the Archbishops’ Council’s Remuneration and Conditions of Service Committee. We also said farewell to Tony Williams, our Pensions Manager, who retired after over 23 years service with the Board.

In 2013, the Board will focus on the Church’s retirement provision for its clergy, through both pensions and retirement housing. We will try to continue to live our values of openness, transparency, understanding our customers and their needs, as well as working closely with employers, dioceses and all of our partners.
