The parish churches of the Church of England are our finest national treasure. It is impossible to tell the history of England without them, and they remain wonderfully, astonishingly available, dotted around towns and cities, villages and countryside. They are as diverse a grouping of architecture as exists anywhere, from the remains of Roman villas used to build up church walls, through to buildings built well within living memory. Their variety, geographical spread, and role in the life of the nation are their defining features.

In 2017 we were delighted to continue our partnerships with The Goldsmiths’ Company, The Pilgrim Trust, The Radcliffe Trust and The Wolfson Foundation to provide financial support and professional advice to the thousands of volunteers looking after the Church of England’s 16,000 buildings and the historic and artistic collections housed in them.

We see our conservation grants as crucial seed funding for the projects that are supported. This year, our conservation grants totalled just over £200,000 representing 12% of the combined cost of these projects, just over £1.9 million. Every year we see volunteers use our grants and advice to raise further funds to conserve and protect some of our most precious historic interiors from disrepair and decay.

Thanks to our partnership with The Pilgrim Trust, 2017 saw a significant increase in grants for conservation reports, with a total of £35,000 awarded to 47 parishes. These grants, with their light-touch application process and professional evaluation, aid parishes in developing a strong case for support when applying for further funding and give funders the confidence that the pounds given will not go towards unnecessary or potentially harmful works.

Through our partnership with the Wolfson Foundation we have distributed £400,000 to 66 projects for essential fabric repairs to Anglican churches across the UK. Grants from this fund are assessed by an expert committee whose knowledge is seen as an endorsement of the overall viability of a project, and as a result we know that our grants helped secure further money, meaning that this funding accounted for just over 4% of the total cost of building works, just over £9.5 million for these churches.

To me, these numbers show there is a huge need to support our parish church volunteers in their selfless mission to look after our national heritage, and to keep churches at the heart of their communities. It also indicates the tireless resolve these volunteers possess, to raise such significant amounts of capital from limited sources, for the care of their local churches.

As always, we are actively looking to work with more funding partners, whether they are organisations or individuals, to continue supporting parish churches. A vicar recently told me that “daily care of a church is an act of worship.” Whatever your particular faith perspective, the good that churches contribute to daily lives, to history and heritage, to tourism, to social cohesion and to the image and identity of an England where everyone is welcome, make supporting them enormously worthwhile.

The parish churches of the Church of England are our finest national treasure. It is impossible to tell the history of England without them, and they remain wonderfully, astonishingly available, dotted around towns and cities, villages and countryside. ChurchCare, the Cathedral and Church Buildings Division of the Church of England, is a national resource offering a comprehensive source of information and conservation support, including funding grants for nearly 16,000 parish churches (12,500 of which are listed) and 42 cathedrals.

We work with external heritage and professional organisations to maintain best practice and improve standards of care and conservation. This includes six conservation committees and a fabric repair committee, consisting of 58 specialists who volunteer their time to review each funding application we receive.

Over the following pages, we provide an overview of this work and further details about our grant schemes to help parishes, friends groups and chapters with the conservation of historic furnishings and artworks in their churches and cathedrals.

ChurchCare’s operating and staff costs are funded by the Archbishops’ Council. However, the conservation grants programme is financially independent and does not receive any central church funds. It relies on donations from external charitable bodies and individuals. Grant-related funds administered by the division are audited and reported in The Archbishops’ Council Annual Report and Financial Statements.

For more information on how you can support Anglican Parish Churches in preserving their heritage for future generations please contact Janet Berry, Head of Conservation. (p.28 for contact details)
This report provides a statement of the grant-giving activities of the Cathedral and Church Buildings Division for 2017. The grants awarded provide our parishes churches with vital resources towards maintaining our heritage and keeping it in-situ and in use into the future.

These are not the statutory accounts for the grants programme. The financial activities are represented in the Archbishops’ Council Annual Report and Financial Statements.

Statutory accounts can be obtained from the Church of England website: www.churchofengland.org
Update on Divisional Projects

The English Churches and Cathedrals Sustainability Review

A review into the Sustainability of Church of England Churches and Cathedrals, commissioned by the Government, reported its results in December 2017. Officers in the division worked closely with government ministers on the review, with both the Chair and Vice-Chair of the Church Buildings Council, and the lead Bishop for Buildings, The Bishop of Worcester, serving as members of the review panel.

The review calls for national networks of advisers on building repairs and maintenance, and a network of community advisers to help churches to engage more effectively with partners and community groups. It points out that churches are uniquely placed to serve their communities and acknowledges the part that they play in society. An underlying message for the Church from the review is of the need for a broadening of the base of support for church buildings from the wider community, not only worshippers, and for the church to be more proactive in using its buildings as assets to generate income to support their sustainability.

The Cathedrals and Church Buildings Division continues to work closely with the Government and other partners on the implementation of two pilot schemes in Suffolk and The Greater Manchester.

Cathedrals Working Group

The Cathedrals Working Group was convened by the Church of England to look carefully at how the current legislation governing cathedrals is operating, and whether any improvements could be made. Officers in the Division worked closely with the Working Group, with the ex-Vice-Chair of the Cathedrals Fabric Commission for England serving as a member of the group.

The report reviews and provides recommendations on the following six themes: Mission & Ecclesiology, Governance, Leadership & Management, Finance, Buildings and Safeguarding.

The Division continues to work closely with the Working Group and advises on any recommendations made relating to buildings.

Crossing the Threshold

The updated Crossing the Threshold toolkit was launched at St Martin’s in the Bullring, Birmingham, in November 2017. Developed in response to the growth in church communities seeking to adapt and improve their space, in order to open up their buildings to other community groups, the toolkit is a step-by-step guide to developing churches for wider community use and managing a successful building project. The division worked on the project in partnership with the Historic Religious Buildings Alliance and Diocese of Hereford.

The toolkit sets out a process to ensure that the historic and liturgical requirements of a place of worship are balanced with community use. Toolkit chapters, or the entire 270 page document, can be downloaded from the Diocese of Hereford website.

The conservation grants programme supports parishes in the conservation of ecclesiastical furnishings and artworks of historic and artistic significance. These grants are targeted at the main categories of objects and materials found in Anglican parish churches: bells, books and manuscripts, clocks, decorative plasterwork, metalwork and church plate, monuments, organs, paintings on canvas and wood, stained glass, textiles, timberwork, wall paintings and historic structures in churchyards. The aim of this programme is to support the care and conservation of church buildings and their contents, balancing it with the needs of worship and mission. Grants are not directed to the mission of the church itself, but specifically to the conservation of artworks and historic furnishings.

In addition to the conservation works, our grants also help with costs associated with preliminary surveys and preparation of conservation reports. The aim of these grants is to allow for the detailed study of the condition of objects and analysis of the causes of their deterioration, in order to establish an informed conservation strategy.

The assessment of applications is carried out by seven committees that draw together 57 professionals who are experts in their particular fields and ensure that grants promote best conservation practice. A list of membership is presented at the end of this report.

158 grants awarded to parish churches in 33 dioceses

ST MARGARET WITH ST NICHOLAS

Grant for fabric repairs to the North Choir Clerestory's 15th century stone tracery and the North Porch parapet.

Significance: King's Lynn Minster, a Grade I listed building, founded as a Benedictine Priory in 1101. The west façade shows stages of development in the 12th, 13th, 14th & 15th-century styles. The present form is mainly 13th century. The Crossing and Choir are original, but the aisles were enlarged in the 15th century when the Choir Clerestories and the North-West tower were also rebuilt.

Need: The rapid deterioration of the North Choir Clerestory is one of the key reasons the building is on Historic England’s Heritage at Risk Register. Urgent repairs to the windows and stonework were needed as structural elements were failing and some even falling to the street below. In addition, there was a need to secure the North Porch parapet’s coping stones which were in danger of falling.

Community: The parish of King’s Lynn falls within the top 2.5% of the most deprived neighbourhoods in the country and significant financial support was needed to support the local community.

Fabric Repair grant awarded: £10,000

The Wolfson Foundation grant rounded off the parish’s impressive fundraising campaign and enabled them to commence these much-needed repairs.

Total Project cost £850,227.

Other funding partners include the Heritage Lottery Fund, the PCC of King’s Lynn St Margaret with St Nicholas, Alan Evans Trust, Norfolk Churches Trust and St Margaret’s Trust.

The project is expected to be completed by July 2018.
The conservation grants programme (for the conservation of artworks and historic furnishings) was funded by donations from The Pilgrim Trust (£204,970) and The Radcliffe Trust (£22,000) and £1,250 from the Gunnis Fund (for the conservation of 18th century Georgian sculpture). In addition to this, the Church Buildings Council allocated £11,000 from its Founders Fund.

Grants offered on the advice of ChurchCare by The Wolfson Foundation Trustees for the repair of fabric of listed church buildings amounted to £400,000.

Without the generous support of our funding partners we would not be able to help the thousands of volunteers that look after some of England’s most treasured heritage, found in our parish churches.
