Say a little prayer for me: Alexa app helps users to connect with God

Mark Bridge Technology Correspondent

In centuries past people went to priests and prophets with questions about the Almighty. Now Christians and the curious are “connecting with God” through Amazon’s Alexa.

Tens of thousands have interacted with the Church of England through the digital assistant since the launch of its own voice-controlled app, Alexa Skill, a year ago.

Some 9.5 million Britons use smart-speakers such as Amazon’s Echo to answer questions and control devices and the church said that more than 75,000 engaged with its new service.

The idea is to give information to newcomers to Christianity and spiritual succour for believers. In other words, users might ask Alexa to give them a prayer or a quick theology lesson, rather than to play them a pop song or reveal the football results.

People with an Echo speaker or Alexa on their phones can access the app by saying: “Alexa, open the Church of England.” They can then ask the church questions about God and Jesus or the sacraments, or ask to hear prayers and religious reflections.

Instead of the normal Alexa voice, the responses were recorded by clergy and churchgoers, a mix of male and female voices and regional accents.

About a third of recent queries involved questions about religion such as “Who is God?” or “What is faith?”, while 40 per cent were requests to hear prayers. Six per cent were requests for grace before a meal. Despite falling church attendance, 7 per cent were to ask where a local church was.

Asked “Who is a Christian?” the app responds: “Belief in God as Father, Son and Holy Spirit is at the heart of our faith. You can find a summary of what Christians believe that has been used since early times.”

One reviewer on the Amazon website wrote: “Such a great help when you are praying alone.” He added that he would like sung psalms and hymns to be added. Another user said that he loved the app despite being a Catholic.

The church plans to launch a version for Google devices by the end of the year. Future features will include more details of local church events and connections to live-streamed services.

The Rev Katherine Hedderly, vicar of All Hallows by the Tower, in London, said: “It helps people who are new to faith to explore deep questions and to find a local church to take the next step.”

The charter and guidelines

- Church publishes first ever guidelines and charter:
 - The community guidelines have been created to encourage conversations that reflect our values. They apply to all content posted by the public on the national social media accounts run by the Church of England, the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Archbishop of York.
 - The charter is a voluntary pledge that we're suggesting individual Christians as well as churches, cathedrals and other groups to sign to help make social media and the web more widely positive places for conversations to happen.
- Endorsed by CofE, Archbishop Justin Welby and Archbishop John Sentamu
- Archbishop Justin officially launched at Facebook UK's office in livestream to the Facebook UK page (with six million followers).
- Will you sign the charter today?

Next three years – supporting churches and dioceses

- Equipping schools, parents and churches with more family resources.
- Developing a year round cycle of campaigns and resources for different audiences.
- Significantly expanding our local church training.
- More audio with Church House Publishing. Recording daily services and seasonal content.
- Improving A Church Near You so that there is even more functionality for churches to use the platform for their own websites.
